

AVIATION PRODUCTS & COMPLETED OPERATIONS LIABILITY

Business engaged in the manufacture of aircraft or of aerospace components incurs a level of financial exposure greater than many other manufacturers. These unique exposures require specialized risk management and insurance solutions to provide the needed coverage as well as the capacity for these businesses to grow with their clients. Starr Aviation brings this specialized expertise to your business.

Depth of Coverage:

- Aircraft manufacturers
- Aerospace components
- General aviation and sub-component manufacturers, including non-critical aviation product accounts.

Depending on the nature and criticality of the products risk and the necessary limits of liability, Starr can provide solutions on either a quota share or 100% basis.

Team Approach & Expertise:

Developing effective aerospace product liability programs require an integrated, team approach. Our underwriters, claims managers and loss control specialists work in close collaboration with your team, enabling our expertise, capacity and capabilities to work as an extension of yours. In addition, we have existing relationships with industry leading legal teams to bring this critical dimension to your program when needed, and also have the capacity and comfort to adjust our programs to work within your established relationships when preferred.

This integrated team approach ensures a cross flow of knowledge and insights that allows us to work creatively in managing and underwriting risks. It enables us to comprehensively assess your unique exposures and needs, and develop innovative ways to structure programs that follow your business plans.
